Strange things occasionally happen in Portland as well as clsewhere. One day recently, a fashionable dressmaker missed from her room the sum of $220. She had just received it, and at the time there were four or five of her lady customers present. She knew one of them must have taken it, but how was she to determine which was the guilty one? She resorted to a clair-voyant, who so clearly described the person who took the money, that the dressmaker laid the case before the police, and an officer called on the suspected party—a woman of wealth, and charged her with the offence, whereupon she confessed and restored the stolen money.

A few days ago, as a young lady was walking along the road optosite Dexter Lamb's pasture, in Rangeley, she saw what she thought was a bear among the sheep. Hurrying on to the house, she breathlessly informed the inmates that a big black bear or something, was killing their sheep. "Why," she says, "fie's taking the ismbe just as fas, as he can." They immediately rushed to the spot, and imagine their surprise and amusement when they found the supposed bear to be norhing but a black sheep.

Peter Finnerty, who died last week at Waukesha, Wis., left $500,000 to his heirs. Fourteen years ago he was working a poor farm, in lowa and afterwards became a deck-hand on a boat running between keekak and St. Louis Fluaily he went Westbecame a mher, discovered the "Little Chief" mine at Leadville, Col., and by strewd management made a large fortune. He could neither read nor write. His wife ran away from him in his days of poverty. Finnerty was a very generous man and his simplicity of character was not spoiled by success.

The Hartford Evening Lest says in is a remarkable fact in connection with the captured battle flags, that the greater part of the medals of honor awarded to Union soldiers under the resolution of Congress, approved July 12, 1862 and section 6 of act of Congress approved March 3, 1863 'for distinguished service during the war of the Rebellion,' were given for the war of the Rebellion, were given for the capture of flags from the enemy Out of the first 30 names of the medal wearers, 16 are those of men who captured flags Out of the first 50 the proportion is still MENEY ARROHM, Agent Boston on fower than 53 receiving the medal for the capture of flags from the enemy Another remarkable point to be noticed in this hat is that a very great number of the receivers of the medals were private soldiers Of the first 30 es no fewer than 16 were those of privates, while 12 more were those of nonommissioned officers. It was not to be wondered at that there was a storm of inlignation over the order returning those flags. BASE BALL.

Belfasts vs. Bangors. gor grounds with the Belfasts was played children yesterday and was characterized by fine P M fielding and batting on the part of the visi tors and rather listless fielding and very weak batting for the home team That little out drop could not be hit, and the consequence was that zeros were drawn roughout the game. There was no snap to the Bangors playing, and the team also played in hard luck Day was batted hard only it, the third inning, when a number of bunched hits brought in four runs Purrington had a number of passed bals, but was excusable as his hands were sore and he has had no practice with Day Lynch and Lang gave Day excellent support. What Bangor most needs is a first

Among the many beautiful and costly jewels belonging to American women there are few which have any special histo y attached to them, and very few are heir-looms. The few families who have heir-looms of any value in this country are generally people too poor in other ways to be able to make a display of them. But there are yet a few which have histories worth telling, and among them is a set of opals belonging to Mrs. Leland Stanford, which she bought of Bellezza, a Genoese Jeweler, who was in Philadelphia at the Centennial Exhibition. These jewels were not publicly displayed, as Bellezza had a superstition about them and would never

"New Year's always seems to me like beginning everything new," said Hon. Russell Sage, the well-known; capitalist. "You know I used to have a bank in Troy, and you know, too, that no bank keeps open on New Year's Day. Now Canada is not so far away from Troy as t is from New York. The cashier of our bank was a bachelor, and I deemed it my duty to keep a close watch on him for that reason. You see he had no home ties to restrain him, and although a very valuable man to the bank I was somewhat afraid be might be led to forget his duty.
